

THE ARGUMENT by Allan Wolf

O:

You loved me
like a cat loves a mouse

I loved you
like a mousetrap loves cheese

I loved you
like a princess loves peas.

I loved you.

I loved you.

You loved me
like a foot loves a foot ball.

Like planes love to crash.

KABOOM!

I loved you.

I loved you.

I loved you
like a bomb loves a boom.

You loved me
like worms love a tomb.

I loved you
when the phone didn't ring.

So I wrote you this verse
because although our bad love

P:

I loved you
like a mouse loves a trap.

I loved you
like a hound dog loves fleas.

What?

I loved you.
I loved you.

I loved you
like feet love to trip.

Like dry grass loves a match.
KABOOM!

I loved you.
I loved you.

You loved me
like a pin loves a balloon.

You made me fume!
I loved you
like bees love to sting.

Hello! You made me stomp, kick, and curse.

So I wrote you this verse

nearly killed me
without it,

I feel even worse.

nearly killed me

no doubt about it,

I feel even worse